Doctor Highlight

Mr RuWei Xu General Surgeon

MB, MSURG, PHD, FRACS

Mr RuWei Xu is part of our Surgery services and completed his general surgical training at Monash Health through the Royal Australasian College of Surgeons in 2016. To consolidate his surgical experience, he worked as the General Surgical Fellow at Ballarat Base Hospital for 12 months in 2017. He has held public appointment at Latrobe Regional Health since 2018.

RuWei has broad general surgical experiences in gastrointestinal, breast, thyroid and abdominal wall hernia procedures. He acquired advanced laparoscopic skills in major abdominal wall hernias, gallbladder and colon cancers. He also performs minor surgical procedures for treatment of skin cancers, vasectomy, carpal tunnel syndrome and varicose veins.

RuWei also has significant basic and clinical research experience. His interest in research led to his completion of a Masters degree from the Royal Melbourne Hospital, the University of Melbourne and a PhD from Monash Medical Centre, Monash University respectively. His current research interest is in the surgical management of abdominal wall hernias.
